Welcome

The Jared Jeffries Basketball Clinic promises to be one of the best basketball clinics of the summer. Jared continues to bring his love of basketball and Bloomington to the youth in our community through his free clinic. He will help develop the basic fundamentals of basketball and discuss how positive life skills can enhance your game.

We are pleased to have Chris Ward, a former professional basketball player and now working for the largest sport management company in the world, join us this summer as our head basketball instructor. Chris has experience training high school student athletes, college players and NBA players in off-season conditioning and will bring his expertise and enthusiasm to this year's camp.

Clinic Will Include:

- Intense/High-Speed Drills
- Individual and Group Instruction
- Games/Scrimmages
- Life Skills Development
- Guest Speakers

The Foundation

The Jared Jeffries Foundation was founded in late 2008 to formalize the extensive charitable activities that Jared personally started upon entering the NBA in 2002.

Before forming his own foundation, Jared was personally presenting scholarships to high school students and hosting a free basketball camp in Bloomington, NJ, as well as providing families in New York City with turkey dinners and other essential items during the holidays.

Reserve your spot by returning the completed registration card. Participants will receive e-mail confirmation after registration is received.
